Attack Of Apoplexy Ends The Life Of Noted
Man At Washington.

Soldier And Statesman, This Noble Southerner Has Gone
To His Last Reward--Much Sorrow Expressed.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

Washington, April 29.—Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, U. S. A., retired, and one of Virginia's foremost sons, died at the Providence hospital here Friday night from an attack of apoplexy, which he suffered early Friday morning on a train while en route from Boston to Washington.

After General Lee had been removed to the hospital it was evident to the attending physicians his case was serious, but they believed his strong vitality and will power would assist materially in a partial recovery at least from the attack. His condition remained fair, considering the severity of the attack, during the day, but

May Be Buried at Arlington. Arrangements for General Lee's funeral will not be made until after the arrival here of Mrs. Lee, who is now on her way to Washington from Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. Meanwhile the body will be prepared for burial and will remain at the hospital. It is possible that the burial may be at the national cemetery at Arlington, although it is expected that General Lee's close friends may make an effort to have a site chosen somewhere else in Virginia, the state in which he lived so many years and with whose interests he was so strongly identified.

shortly after 9 o'clock he began to grow weaker, his breathing became more rapid, and his pulse lower, terminating in less than two hours in death.

Brain Remains Active. The end was peaceful and without pain, the general remaining conscious until within five minutes of the end. Half an hour before he died General Lee recognized his brother, Daniel Lee. In the room when he died were Dr. Montgomery, one of the physicians, Miss Dorsey, a relative and a nurse.

A pathetic feature of the case is that although General Lee was blessed with a family consisting of a wife and five children not one of them was with him at the time of his death. The general was 68 years of age.

company engaged in commemorating the settlement at Jamestown by means of a land and sea display and military and naval exhibit at Hampton roads, and it was in the interest of this he went to Boston.

A widow and five children survive General Lee. Two of the boys are army officers and two of the girls are wives of army officers, while the remaining child is a girl still in her teens. The children are: Mrs. J. C. Rhea, wife of Lieutenant Rhea, now at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.; Lieutenant Fitzhugh Lee of the cavalry branch, now in Manila; Lieutenant George Mason Lee, of the Seventh cavalry, who is in San Francisco; Mrs. Anne Brown, wife of Lieutenant Brown of the Seventh cavalry, who is at San Francisco, and Miss Virginia Lee.

BIGELOW LOSES HIS HOME; RECEIVER IN POSSESSION

The Defaulting Financier Is Now Dependent
Upon His Son For a Place
To Live.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

Milwaukee, Wis., April 29.—Frank G. Bigelow, the defaulting banker, was ousted from his palatial home in Astor street Friday, the homestead having been taken possession of by the Wisconsin Trust and Security company as receiver for the Bigelow estate. Mr. Bigelow, with his family, taking little except personal effects, went to the home of his son, Gordon Bigelow, 499 Marshfield street.

The supplementary schedule of liabilities and assets to Mr. Bigelow's petition in bankruptcy will probably not be filed before a week or ten days. Mr. Bigelow did much of his private business from memory and it is this circumstance which is delaying the completion of the schedule.

Broadhead Estate Tangle. No action has been taken as yet by the heirs of the Broadhead estate looking to the removal of Bigelow as trustee. It is said, however, that Judge Carpenter in the county court will take steps soon to remove Bigelow from the various trusts which he holds by virtue of testamentary appointment. Opportunity will be given the ex-bank president to resign from these positions and if he does not do so the court will take the necessary steps to remove him.

Bigelow has acknowledged that he owes the Broadhead estate $50,000 in addition to the $100,000 shown in the list of unsecured creditors.

Orders Broker to Sell. It has developed that Bigelow on the day preceding the filing of his petition in bankruptcy telegraphed a broker in New York city to dispose of 100 shares of a certain stock and to turn the proceeds over to a friend of Bigelow in New York. The broker, realizing that the stock had been turned over to the bank as part of Bigelow's restitution, declined to fill the order.

The resignation of Mr. Bigelow as chairman of the Milwaukee Clearing-House association has been received and accepted. He is succeeded by Frederick Kasten.

Bank Stockholders to Meet. A meeting of the stockholders of the First National bank will be held May 5. The directors wish to consult the stockholders as to what course they wish to be pursued. It is likely the directors will sound the stockholders on the subject of a new president. The balance against the First National bank in the Milwaukee clearing-house was reduced during the day to almost an even thing, thus showing that the bank has recovered its normal condition.

No tidings of Henry G. Goll, the missing assistant cashier of the bank, have been received.

News of Baltic Fleet.

Tokio, April 29.—It is stated positively that the Baltic fleet was still steaming about between Kamranh bay and Cape Valera, seventy miles north of Kamranh bay, as late as Thursday evening. It was then a long way off shore.

British Cruisers on Watch.

Singapore, April 29.—The British warships Amphitrite, Sutlej, and Iphigenia are patrolling the straits outside Singapore. The weather is thick and rainy, and the straits are invisible from the roads, so that if Nebogoff's squadron should pass it could not be seen from shore.

Fleet Sailed on April 26.

Kamranh Bay, April 29.—The Russian squadron, with its transports, left its last stopping place Wednesday evening for an unknown destination. The warships were provisioned for six months, and it is thought here that they were bound for Vladivostok by way of the Pacific. Four German colliers arrived in Kamranh bay too late to proceed with the squadron, but they subsequently sailed in the same direction in efforts to catch up with it.

Neutrality Not Violated.

London, April 29.—Rojestvensky's position in reference to France's neutrality continues to be discussed, but the idea that he has violated neutrality cannot be substantiated. The Japanese minister here when questioned on the subject did not seem to be uneasy. He pointed out that France could not prevent the Russians from cruising off Kamranh bay, outside territorial waters, if they do not communicate with shore. Japan, he added, relied upon France's assurances and would believe that the government of India-China is strictly fulfilling his obligations until proof to the contrary is at hand.

STATE NOTES

A severe electrical storm passed over Kenosha at 7 o'clock Friday evening. Lightning damaged the telephone system.

During the heavy electrical storm of Friday afternoon lightning struck the Catholic church at West Bend but did little damage.

The new school building at Two Rivers was dedicated Friday evening, addresses being delivered by Mayor Curran, President Hamilton, and Judge Baensch of Manitowish. Port Atkinson high school, arguing the negative, defeated Watertown high school last night in a debate on the subject, "Resolved, That the United States should pass an income tax law."

President Arnold of the Kenosha street railway has issued a letter to the people in which he says he is willing to make concessions and also to enter into a traffic arrangement with the Milwaukee interurban line. The Racine board of education Friday night failed to select a clerk out of six applicants to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of George Harney. It also refused to change the mode of holding public commencement exercises by the Racine high school.

Proceedings have been instituted in the circuit court at Racine for the drainage of a large tract of land on the south branch of Root river, it being contemplated that a canal six miles long be constructed through the towns of Yorkville and Raymond, redeeming 8,000 to 10,000 acres of land.

The will of Hannah Nelson, mother of Mrs. Charles L. Fair and one of the principal heirs to Mrs. Fair's estate, was filed for probate at Newmarket, N. J. Mrs. Nelson's estate is estimated to be worth $500,000. The bulk of it is given in equal shares to her six surviving children and to the children of Mrs. Sarah B. Mossier, a deceased daughter.

ROOSEVELT TO BE APPEALED

Chicago Unions To Ask President To Force
Employers To Arbitrate.

TROOPS NOT YET USED ON STREETS

Seven Hundred Teams Of The New Team Association Are Ready To Deliver All Goods Ordered.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

Chicago, April 29.—President Roosevelt may be appealed to, to end the teamsters' strike, which now threatens to assume proportions dangerous to the peace and business interests of Chicago. A resolution asking the President to step in and force the employers to arbitrate the issues now being fought, thus averting the necessity of bringing federal troops to Chicago, will be introduced at a special meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor tomorrow. A petition to the President may be presented upon his expected arrival in Chicago next week.

Ask Business Men

The business men not directly involved in the strike will probably be asked to join in the appeal to the President. If this course is not decided upon, it is said the meeting tomorrow will result in laying plans for a general labor struggle which will involve all the unions that can be drawn into the strike. Meanwhile both sides are preparing to continue the struggle today.

Has Many Wagons

Manager Reed of the Employers' Teaming company has seven hundred wagons ready to handle whatever business is offered and to make a test of the efficiency of the federal injunction issued yesterday to protect the employers in their efforts to haul goods through the streets.

No Troops

No troops have been sent yet from Fort Sheridan, although four hundred regulars are there ready for immediate service. If the troops are sent for they will be used first to insure the prompt handling of government money between the railway depots and subtreasuries.

During the Night

The dry-goods houses and express companies delivered goods to all parts of the city and suburbs during Friday night free from interference and with little police protection. In the downtown district the express wagons had heavy police guards, but there was no attempt at violence.

An Ultimatum

The packers today delivered an ultimatum to their teamsters that they must deliver goods to the boycotted firms or be discharged. This practically means the extension of the strike to the stockyards, involving twenty-five hundred additional teamsters.

Shut Off Coal Supply

The shutting off of the Chicago coal supply will be the policy of the strike leaders, who believe this is the best way to win the struggle. Carefully laid plans have been made to tie up the deliveries of coal all over the city. The disturbances began early today. Inor Mulcahy was attacked by a non-union coal teamsters of Employers' Teaming Co. and severely cut. His assailant was chased by a crowd, but escaped.

Attacked Driver

Eugene Cole, a colored non-union teamster, was attacked by a crowd of wagon boys discharged by Marshall Field & company, at Franklinly pressed he drew a revolver and shot Peter Butler, aged seventeen, in the arm. Cole was chased, but was rescued by the police, who placed him under arrest. He is one of thirty colored men employed by Marshall Field & company to displace the union boys.

Boldly Stabbed

Victor Grimes, a fifteen-year-old messenger-boy of a Chicago dry-goods house, was reported at one o'clock, while on his way to the express office, as held up on the Madison street bridge by three boys, who stabbed him in the chest. He is seriously injured, and was taken to a hospital. His assailants escaped.

No More

Charles Doid, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, said today the federation would not call a general strike, but the strike would become general through the natural operations, as union men will resist all efforts to force them to deliver goods to unfair firms.

Troops Are Ordered

Two wagons and an escort of troops have been ordered from Fort Sheridan to haul the government bullion between the railroads and the subtreasury. A carload of wagons en route to the Warwell company without a police escort was attacked at Franklin and Madison streets. The non-union drivers fired on the crowd indiscriminately.

Many Were Shot

Charles Lidinsky, a spectator, was shot behind his ear and seriously wounded. The police arrived and dispersed the crowd and arrested several negro strikers. A few minutes later a crowd of two thousand attempted to lynch Roy Youngblood, colored, but were repulsed by the police.

The Stockyards

The stockyards teamsters have notified the employers they will not deliver the goods to the boycotted firms. The extension of the strike to the stockyards now seems inevitable.

VERY HEAVY WORK BEING DONE BY THE LEGISLATURE

Work Overtime on Friday So That They Can Go Home on Saturday
To Rest.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 29.—An effectual corrupt practices law is proposed by the assembly committee on privileges and elections, and was introduced in the assembly yesterday afternoon with the report that the committee had had it under consideration and recommended its passage. It is the result of efforts on the part of certain members to repeal the law requiring candidates for office to file with the register of deeds itemized statements showing their expenses in campaigning for election. This law has become practically a dead letter, comparatively few candidates complying with its provisions. Members proposed therefore, to repeal it entirely because they declared it was of no use. Such repealing measures have been killed by the legislature on the argument that the law is a good one in principle and that it is wiser to strengthen the present statute so as to make it effective rather than remove it entirely from the statute books. The new bill proposes to accomplish this by requiring that after the time for filing the expense accounts has elapsed a list of all who have failed to comply shall be published and directing the prosecuting officer to have the delinquents arrested and punished. The bill also prohibits any successful candidate from qualifying for the office to which he has been elected until he has complied with the laws.

The committee on judiciary reported in favor of killing the Stout so-called "gratuity" bill, which prohibits the making of gifts to agents or employees for the purpose of influencing them against their employers or principals. It is aimed to lessen "graft" in business affairs.

The Milwaukee and Platteville normal school appropriation bill was advanced to third reading and passed under suspension of the rules after being amended according to the report of the committee at the morning session.

The Huber bill to appropriate $1,500 for the purpose of lighting the executive residence from the capitol electric plant was amended so as to reduce the appropriation to $1,000 and advanced to third reading. Advancement was also accorded to the bill introduced by Mr. Ainsworth by request, to appropriate $750 to pay for the increased official bond of State Treasurer Kempf.

The assembly adjourned to meet next Monday night at nine o'clock, the meeting Thursday afternoon being held in place of a Saturday session. The calendar followed was rested and punished. The bill also

GOVERNMENT MAKING RADICAL CHANGES IN HOSPITALS.

WHAT IS NOW BEING DONE

Miss Humphrey Writes of the Improvements That Are Being Made at Present.

Colon, April 16, 1905.

Sometime ago I wrote and sent photographs of the hospital at Colon as it looked when the commission took it from the French. To show you that something has been doing since then in the way of repairs and painting I will give a comparative pen picture of the hospital.

Wherever the Catholic sisters reside, there are always high fences, numerous screens, lattice work and partitions of all kinds to bar out the eyes of the curious. The hospital was as thoroughly screened in this way as the fondest wish could desire. The main building has a frontage of perhaps a hundred feet. It is two stories in height with porches for both stories, extending the entire length of the building, on both sides of the house. In this hundred feet of porch extension on the front lower porch, there were two stairways and two doorways to intercept the view down the length of it. On the upper front porch there were three doorways to shut off the different sections of the porch. On the seaward side of the building similar partitions were found besides a large amount of lattice work. All of these screens have been removed, a central stairway put in, so there is no interruption to the long stretch of porch on either side of the house, or on either story.

Small Buildings

In front of the main building were two unsightly small buildings, which were used for private cases or cases unfit to go into a ward. These also have been torn down. In front of the main building was a tall fence made of galvanized iron with high picket gates in front of the main entrance. This, too, has been removed as well as the same kind of fence across the street. Partitions inside the building have been changed so as to make more private rooms on the second floor and a larger ward for the white men. Besides the main building there are three other buildings repaired in the same way and are now occupied as wards. All of these buildings have been painted a pale yellow (a color objectionable to the malarial mosquito) with white trimmings and green blinds. All roofing down here is of galvanized iron. This has been painted red, adding very much to the generally neat appearance of the buildings. Electric lights have been put in all the buildings, so lanterns and lamps are of no further use to use, a great relief in the land of constant breezes. Much still remains to be done to put the place into a proper condition. In front of the main building is a narrow strip of land which is filled with unsightly plants in the utmost confusion and profusion. All of this, is to be removed or at least made slightly and the strip of land converted into a narrow grass plot.

No New Buildings

So much repairing was needed to be done on the buildings already in existence, no new buildings have been erected as yet, but construction will soon begin. A detention hospital.

THE HOSPITAL AS IT WAS ORIGINALLY

For contagious cases is to be erected, first then an operating room with a surgical ward in connection, a new and up-to-date kitchen, a large steam laundry, and numerous additional wards. In a year's time this will hardly be recognized as the same place that the Commission took from the hands of the French.

Thunder Showers

For the past three days there has been thunder showers and a land breeze. Residents of several years' experience tell us this is the beginning of the wet season. That season is not supposed to begin before May. We are glad to have some rain once more, to wet the parched earth, and brighten the drooping vegetation.

VERY SUCCESSFUL BASKETBALL SEASON

Team of the Y. M. C. A. Victorious In Six Out of Nine Contests Played.

Basketball among the members of the Y. M. C. A. was during the past winter a very popular sport and standing at the head of the athletic department of the institution was very successful basketball team. Nine games were played with various teams of different class and caliber and of these contests six were victories for the Association five. The first two games of the season, both with the local high school aggregation, were defeats and the last contest, with Beloit college at Beloit, resulted disastrously, but otherwise laurels are easily won. In total scores for the season 301 points were made by the team and 208 were scored against them, a majority of 93. Following is a tabulated record of the season:

Dec. 16, at H. S.: Y. M. C. A. 18, H. S. 21.
Jan. 6, at H. S.: Y. M. C. A. 14, H. S. 18.

JANESVILLE NINE IS STRONG BUNCH

Hinkley and Cal Broughton Are Battery for Yost Park Game—New First Baseman.

Tomorrow's baseball game at Yost's park between the Janesville nine and the New Drexels of Rockford, promises to be a first class exhibition of America's national sport. Hinkley, the left handed twister that made the Milton Crescents famous last year, has been secured to pitch and Cal Broughton and Wendt will hold down the local lineup is strong and among them is Solbrau, delegated to first base, who last season played in the northern league. The New Drexels are managed and captained by the bowling alleys in the Forrest City and men whom local bowlers have contested with and one of whom played against the Rockford baseball team at Yost's park last year. The Drexels are now largely made up of former members of the Rockford nine of the Three-I League. The Janesville team will be composed as follows: Catch, C. Broughton and Wendt; pitch, Hinkley; shortstop, Frank Broughton and Devora; first base, Solbrau; second base, Ford; third base, Tristlet; left field, Green; center field, J. Ruhland, and right field, Larson. J. Riley will substitute. William Saxby will umpire the game.

CHARGE OF EXTRAVAGANCE IN BUYING OF VOTING MACHINES

Is Refuted by Color of Bids Submitted at Indianapolis—A Forgotten Election Issue.

During the recent election in this city an effort was made to create an issue out of the alleged extravagance of officials in purchasing for the city five U. S. Standard voting machines at a cost of $750 each. For campaign purposes it was hinted that more was paid for these machines than need to have been expended and that in any event another make, just as good, could have been produced for much less money. The election is gone and forgotten, but it cannot but be of interest to everyone who heard the pratings of this faked issue to note the character of the bids submitted by four manufacturers, including the U. S. Standard of Rochester, for furnishing Marion county, Indiana, with the large order of 130 machines. These bids were recently opened at Indianapolis. Observe that there is no departure from the price charged Janesville.

United States Standard, $97,500, or $750 a machine.

Winslow, $97,500, or $750 a machine.

Columbia, $78,000 or $600 a machine.

National of Indianapolis, $81,250, or $625 a machine.

The city of Rockford by a majority of 849 in the last election decided to adopt this new method of balloting.

Progressive communities are rapidly getting into line, and Janesville has good reason to believe that no mistake was made in taking the lead in southern Wisconsin.

AVERAGE LIFE HAS LENGTHENED FOUR YEARS IN THE PAST DECADE

According to Figures of Milwaukee Physicians—Incomes of Doctors Falling Off.

People live longer now, and in consequence doctors are getting poorer. This is the statement of Dr. W. H. Washburn of Milwaukee, who has had a bad gathering statistics. Dr. Washburn said today that there was not a physician in general practice in that city who was receiving with $1,000 of what he received as income in 1895. The average lengthening of life in the past ten years had been four years. In Milwaukee alone $300,000 less was paid for doctors' bills in 1902 than was paid in 1892. On the basis of this lengthening of life Dr. Washburn said the annual saving to the people of the United States yearly in doctors' bills was $80,000,000.

AMATEURS WERE WELL RECEIVED

Strong Bill Before Large Audience at West Side Theatre Last Evening.

With three Chicago gentlemen, who are in the city, on the amateur bill, that part of the West Side theatre program last evening was exceptionally strong. Ernest Ragan was highly pleasing with his imitation and dancing act. Frank Burke did a clever juggling act. As an Irish comedian, in singing, dancing and monologue "stunts," Jeff Shaw proved exceptionally adept. The several acts savored of professionalism, which assertion the gentlemen heartily declare to be untrue. Messrs. Ragan, Burke and Shaw are in the city in the interests of the Chicago Record-Herald. The all-feature act bill of this week is proving a strong drawing card. A large audience witnessed the performance last evening.

GERMAN LIBRARY IS NOW ASSURED FACT

Hans Caemmerer Raises Funds for Making Carnegie Institution a Traveling Library Station.

It is now an assured fact that a shelf for German books will be permanently established in the Janesville public library. Hans Caemmerer, who took up the work of raising the funds necessary for local institution to become a member of the circuit on which these libraries of thirty-five German volumes travel, from the Wisconsin State Free Library Commission, and hereafter the lot of books at the library will be changed every six months. The amount required to secure this favor was thirty five dollars and much credit should devote upon Mr. Caemmerer for taking a personal interest in the library. Thus far the German books have proven very popular and though the circulation is now dropping off a little it is not decreasing in comparison any more rapidly than is the circulation of the English book, summer now commencing. If the German volumes continue in popularity some may be purchased by the board as the property of the library.

FORECAST FOR MAY BY HICKS

LONG DISTANCE WEATHER MAN'S LITTLE SAY.

PREDICTS A WARM SPELL

Also Prognosticates Severe Rain Storms with Grand Electrical Displays.

After dealing out six storm periods in April to the people Long Distance Hicks has come back again to the system as it was in the olden days and lays out but five periods for May. The first storm period, regular, is central, coincident with the Venus period, on the 6th, thus combining the Venus and Vulcan perturbations exactly on the central day of both. The new moon and the moon also at its greatest north declination, are the other disturbing factors of this period.

Electrical Displays.

Threatening barometer readings and rising temperature will be noted as early as the 4th in western parts, with great and growing humidity, increasing storm conditions general. It is almost certain that a plethoric warm wave for the season will appear at the same time, and a series of very severe and violent storms will pass eastward over the 5th country from about Friday the 5th to Monday the 14th. Vicious lightning and thunder with downpours of rain and hail will attend these storms. Tornadoes are very probable in many localities. A sudden reaction to very cool will follow in the track of these storms, bringing frost to most parts of the country in central and northern sections.

Tornadoes Coming.

Centering on the 12th, 13th and 14th is the second and reactionary storm period. The disturbing factors will be Venus, the Vulcan reactionary and moon at first quarter on the celestial equator. All through the month of May there is a convergence and focalization of the sun's electric and magnetic energy, embracing all the central tier of states, hence the frequency of tornadoes and similar storms during this month. At this period it will be wise to anticipate such storms—that is, do not suffer them to come upon you wholly by surprise. Marked thunder storms will occur on and touching the 14th, followed by sudden change to very cool.

Daily Rainstorms.

The third storm period is central on the 17th, covering the 16th to 20th inclusive and is regular. Added to the regular Vulcan force, this period has still the Venus disturbance and the full moon in perigee. Look for ominous fall of the barometer about the 17th, with corresponding increase of temperature, all followed by violent and wide-reaching storms of rain, hail and thunder. In every probability a daily cycle of rains and thunder storms will set in at this time, repeating themselves about the same hour of the day and night for several days in succession. Almost to an absolute certainty there will be tornado storms here and there over the tornado belt, during this, and other central May storm periods. But those who will watch their barometers and other sure indications of coming storms, having at hand places of safe resort, need suffer little dread and apprehension. Those who presumptuously, indifferently, negligently or defiantly prefer to let things drift and take their chances, must, of course, suffer the consequences. The series of storms at this period will terminate in a wide and sweeping storm of rain, wind and thunder, and will be followed by a high barometer and change to much cooler.

A Little Hope Left.

The Venus perturbation partially exists up to this, the fourth reactionary storm period, which centers on the 23d, 24th and 25th and were it not for this fact the causes of storms at this time would be reduced to a minimum. Under the Venus influence, added the peculiar solar phenomenon in May, it is entirely probable that the daily series of thunder and rain storms, started at the third storm period, may continue into this reactionary period. In such event, the general crisis or culmination of storms will come on and touching the 24th and 25th. In any event, storm conditions will be increased on these dates. Behind the storms will follow rising barometers and change to cooler—much cooler in northern and northwestern states.

Last Storm Period.

The fifth and last storm period which is reactionary extends from the 27th to the 31st, being central on the 29th. The causes bearing on the period are Vulcan and Mercury equinoxes, with moon on the equator and in apogee. The storms of this period will develop as early as the 28th in western parts, and falling barometer with more rain and thunder will advance eastward over the country during the last three days of May. Rising barometer and change to cooler will keep close on the heels of storms moving eastward. As hinted in April forecasts, the Venus period will bring excessive rains the first part of May, flooding lowlands.

GRAND LODGE OF I. O. D. F. TO MEET IN MILWAUKEE

Preparations Being Made For the Big Gathering During Early Part of June.

The grand lodge of Wisconsin, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will assemble in Milwaukee on June 7 and 8. The Rebekah assembly, which is an auxiliary of the order, will hold a session in that city at the same time. There will be 350 delegates to the Odd Fellows' annual and an attendance of about 1,500 people from all over the state is expected. The sixteen Milwaukee lodges have decided to make elaborate preparations for the reception and entertainment of the grand lodge. An organization of three representatives of each lodge has been perfected, and committees have been appointed.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, April 29.—For Idaho.—Six or eight teams, comprising in all about twenty-five yoke of oxen, passed through here yesterday on their way to Idaho. The party was from Whitewater.

A Rare Treat in Store.—Our citizens will be pleased to learn that we are soon to be favored with an ovation from the talented young American, Arthur C. McNight. Mr. Lee, his agent, was in town yesterday making the necessary arrangements, and we believe his appearance will take place on Tuesday evening next, the 2d proximo. His recovery from a recent illness in St. Louis in nearly complete, and our citizens have a rich treat in store for them.

The News

The rebel Joe Johnston has surrendered to General Sherman as the brief dispatch from General Grant informs us, and the great rebellion is dead for ever so far as any fighting is concerned. Johnston surrendered upon the same terms that Lee did, though he begged hard for some of the rights foolishly granted by Sherman. But the hero of Vicksburg knew just what terms to "Grant," and the rebel general came down without firing a gun. Thus is the military power of the confederacy broken, and the rebel leaders are either prisoners of fleeing fugitives, seeking to find refuge on foreign shores. It is reported that Jeff. Davis has arrived in South Carolina, but it is not likely that he can reach the Mississippi in safety.

One of the most striking exhibitions of southern "cheek" that has been manifested, is found in the report of General Lee's views. He does not consider that he was engaged in a rebellion, but simply took up arms to defend state rights; in other words, he owed allegiance to the state of Virginia, instead of the United States! He was opposed to secession originally but in his theory of government the claims of the State are paramount over those of the Federal government, and there is no such thing as treason in the case. It is not presumable that General Lee has ever heard of such a document as the Constitution of the United States, which speaks of treason as consisting of "levying war" or giving aid and comfort to enemies. Was General Lee defending the State sovereignty of Virginia on Pennsylvania soil at Gettysburg? His excuse for Jeff. Davis and his accomplices in guilt will find no response in the North, even among the copperhead element of that party; and because we cannot punish the traitors that deserve it, there is no reason why justice should not be done to the more prominent of the leaders. This exposition of Lee's views stamps him as rebel through and through, and illustrates how thoroughly debauched the minds of some of the southern people have become upon this question of State rights. As Lee intimates, it never can be gotten out of them until it is whipped out and it is a matter of rejoicing that it has been so thoroughly done.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

There are some circumstances connected with the embezzlement of the Milwaukee bank president, which will be remembered during the past week, which will bear more than passing thought. The money loss, in this instance, is hardly worth considering for it falls on a few business associates who were morally and legally responsible, and abundantly able to make it good.

When the downfall of a man like president Bigelow occurs, it means vastly more than the loss of money. He was one of the strong men of the city which had long been his home and field of operation.

Strong not only in the world of finance, where his word was as good as his bond, but strong in the domain of morals where he commanded the respect and confidence of the entire community.

People who knew him best were shocked and amazed, and many of them are yet slow to believe him guilty of intentional wrong doing. The class of boys which he taught in the Sunday school, meet him as a friend and still have confidence in him.

It is a well established fact that the great bulk of capital on which the business world depends for success, is not money, but confidence. The merchant with limited capital but with reputation for honesty and ability finds no trouble in securing all the goods he needs.

The young man who possesses a good moral character, combined with ambition, thrift, and the ability to make money with money, is never lacking for capital, for the financial world has plenty of vacancies awaiting to be filled by this class of men.

Any act which destroys character and weakens moral integrity means more than a money loss. The downfall of Mr. Bigelow is a tragedy, and its influence will be felt in the moral world long after the financial loss is forgotten.

While no panic will result, a wide spread feeling of distrust will prevail and many people will be asking themselves the question, "Whom can we trust?"

The influence on young men is worse than the dime novel for it incites to recklessness in handling other people's money, which is always easy to squander.

The attitude of this Milwaukee banker, since his defalcation was made public, is a study. Unlike the old man who was a victim of Mrs. Chadwick at Oberlin, and who was so overcome with grief and remorse that he collapsed, he puts on a bold front, and assumes an air of indifference which is difficult to understand.

It is said that no class of men are so seared in conscience and destitute of moral accountability as the gambler. Whether the game be cards, or the stakes be higher, the same demoralizing influence prevails.

Mr. Bigelow gambled with other people's money, and lost. Had he won he would have been the same man at heart. His moral character was wrecked long before the day of exposure and that accounts in a measure for the supreme indifference which he has since displayed.

It is possible for a man to pursue a course of wrong doing so long and so persistently, that the wrong seems right. He never takes into account the possibility of failure, and so every act is justified, while he is as much of a criminal at heart in the days of seeming prosperity as when adversity comes and exposure follows.

There is no sorrow for the wrong committed, but simply self-condemnation for being found out. This is evidently the condition of mind in which the Milwaukee banker finds himself.

It all goes to show that the human heart, at best, is extremely weak. Moral failures are not as prevalent as financial failures because men are not so often tested. Many men pride themselves on moral integrity but they have never been tested.

The statement is frequently made that all of the criminals of the state are not behind the bars and the statement is true. This question of deception and hypocrisy is very old. Two thousand years ago the master found it among the leading men of the Jewish church which he denounced as hypocrites and white washers. They were men who stood well in the community but they were rotten at heart.

community and the harm that he may do, simply depends upon the largeness of the opportunity.

Mr. Bigelow was evidently this kind of a man. His recent actions indicate that he is lost to all sense of moral accountability and that exposure is simply a personal misfortune.

There is something pathetic about the collapse of the young man Goll who acted as a confederate in the scheme. He also enjoyed the confidence of all who knew him and until four years ago, when he lost his wife, he was a model of sobriety and integrity.

Then he attempted to drown his sorrow in drink, and while he maintained his position, he became reckless and dissipated. It is said of him that one night while standing before a bar with a glass in his hand, that he was overcome with remorse, and throwing the glass on the floor, said: "I must go home to my children."

This man, unnerfed by drink, and consumed by sorrow was in condition of mind to become an accomplice of the stronger man, and so his moral wreckage was completed, and he is now a fugitive from justice.

The other two young men who falsified figures under the direction of the president, were victims of the same pernicious influence. Others will suffer directly as the result of this man's speculations, and this is always true of this class of crimes.

What the world needs today is more old fashioned honesty, as well as a keener sense of moral responsibility. It should be taught in the home and the school, and heralded from every pulpit in the land. The boys, who are to be men of the next generation, need an enlightened and active conscience, more than they need any other equipment. Sin is sin under whatever guise it may masquerade, and the ability to recognize it, as well as the disposition to shun it, is of vital importance.

PRESS COMMENT.

Evansville Review: It is a little too early for an abundance of strawberries, but the supply of pork and beans beat strawberries forty ways.

Chicago Tribune: As a small report it would be just like Mr. Carnegie to set aside a small fund for the maintenance of decayed dukes.

Ohio State Journal: The poor young man who buys the large solitaire on the installment plan is equaled in foolishness only by the sweet young girl who wears it.

Oshkosh Northwestern: When a man can get a salary of $100 per week for writing funny jokes for the papers, like our friend "Billy" Kirk of Milwaukee, what is the use of trying to be sensible?

Superior Telegram: Don't be alarmed if your son gets a new girl every three months. It is only when he sticks to one that there is occasion for serious alarm.

Rockford Register-Gazette: If the Ringlings decide to winter here, the city hall will not be the only elephant Rockford has on her hands.

Chicago Record-Herald: Add another mine horror to the long, long list. Baron Baer must find those interruptions of business very trying upon his patience.

Detroit Evening News: Mr. Corliss's orders are that, in order to retain their jobs, postmasters must forego those activities by which they got them.

Racine Journal: Lincoln Steffens talks of woe and alleged corruption in other states creates no sensation. His misrepresentation in this state killed his act of expose business.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: It costs something to be elected United States senator from Missouri. Senator Warner has 5,000 congratulatory letters to answer, and none of his correspondents inclosed a stamp.

Exchange: The Ferris wheel, it is reported, is to be blown up by dynamite, that being the cheapest way to put an end to its checkered career. It has never been much of a success, but it will go out of existence in a blaze of glory.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Philanthropist Carnegie's stern resolve to contribute nothing to the war—not even in aid of the widows and orphans made by it—does not extend to contracts for armor plate.

Exchange: A man from Indiana, who was arrested for stealing electricity by tapping the electric light company's wires, was discharged, as there is no law in the state against the theft of electricity.

La Crosse Leader-Press: Both houses of the Legislature have now said that La Crosse is to have a normal school, the bill, passed by the assembly and senate, awaiting only the certain signature of the governor to become law.

Appleton Crescent: Chicago will put down thirty miles of macadam streets this year. The city will go into the paving industry itself instead of letting out the work to contractors. It is estimated that the cost will not exceed $3,000 a mile.

Pucks Finale: When at last you cross the border—For cross it all men must—You'll find the Knocker's order With little pains, I trust. Go down through thorn and thicket, And mud and slimy rock. And there, at Hades' wicket, Knock.

Appleton Post: The once powerful Winnebago tribe of Indians, now situated near Black River Falls in this state, is rapidly diminishing in numbers owing to the ravages of consumption among its members. It is predicted by the resident farmer that unless something is done to stop the disease, the tribe will become extinct in the not distant future.

Minneapolis Tribune: Minneapolis has a right to complain of the high prices asked for flowers on Saturday. The flower trust inflated carnations to a dime for one. Violets were simply out of sight and American beauties were not for American beauties—unattached to large financial resources.

Madison Journal: A high railroad official replies to Governor La Follette in the Saturday Evening Post. He says Robert uses figures which the Inter-State Commerce Commission itself has disallowed. It is of no use! The railroad man will never catch up! The governor is already storming other forts.

Milwaukee News: It is now thought that the legislature may be able to adjourn without dragging the session to unusual length, but though "the work" is nearing its finish, the pledge to "strengthen" the anti-pass law is unredempted and no move has been made to keep faith with the hunched followers of the pure and undefiled.

Milwaukee Free Press: The wheat gambler, and the stock gambler, if he is a winner, or if he can afford to lose, is entitled to a front seat wherever he goes. He will be entitled to one in heaven, if we may judge from the considerations shown him by some earthly agents and guardians of that blessed place.

Superior Telegram: The Oshkosh Northwestern says that "You seldom find a man applying for a divorce when he gets three good meals a day at home, and always on time." Very well if he has a wife who is content to pass her life feeding a big, fat hog three times a day without even a vacation. It would be no more than fair if he himself should try the sauer kraut once in a while.

Minneapolis Times: Grover Cleveland has an article in the May number of the Ladies Home Journal that will certainly not increase the admiration of the gentler sex for the ex-president. Mr. Cleveland is not heavy and pompous, while lacking in that charity which should permeate a man of such large mentality as he. He looks with little favor on the clubs, and thus pictures his ideal: "A woman who loves her husband and her country, with no desire to run either."

Chicago Chronicle: One of the very latest shades is called "trading stamp blue."

Marquette Eagle-Star: Henry G. Goll, the Milwaukee assistant cashier, has gone to join the missing Mr. Dove.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Orlando McConnell
All that is mortal of the late Mrs. Orlando McConnell was committed to its final resting place in Mount Olivet cemetery this morning. COLLEGE HEADS IN THEIR ANNUAL MEET

Illinois Convention at Bloomington
Discusses Work of Institutes Supported by Private Funds.

Bloomington, Ill., April 29.—Twenty-five sectarian colleges of Illinois were represented at the first annual meeting of the Federation of Illinois. The organization consists of the various colleges of Illinois not supported by public funds. The feature of the opening day's session was the address by A. R. Taylor, president of Millikin university of Decatur, and who is the president of the federation. His subject was "The Function of the Christian College."

He said: "The difficulty with our educational ideals is that on the one side, while striving to magnify religion, we have really minimized both its sphere and its function, and on the other hand that, while magnifying the importance of education, we have failed to recognize sufficiently its genesis and its fruition in religion. In our efforts to make saints, we have failed to make men and in our efforts to make men we have fallen far short of making saints."

The state, in becoming the sponsor for the education of its citizens, conceded the right of the church to control the appointment of teachers, but it is now excluded from all such privileges and the state is supreme. The nationalizing of our educational system has gradually eliminated all formal religious instruction."

CATTLE ARE IN BAD CONDITION

KILLING COWS AT STRONG FARM REVEALS SHOCKING CONDITION

SOME IN THE LAST STAGES

And Some of the Worst Affected Animals Looked Perfectly Healthy When Killed.

Conditions among the cattle on the Strong farm near Beloit were worse than had been dreamed. The inquiry by Prof. H. L. Russell, state bacteriologist, who made demonstrations at the killing of the tuberculous cattle, developed the fact that the disease has existed among the herd for years. While few cattle have been sold from the farm to add to other dairy herds it is quite possible that the infection has been carried to neighboring farms and that many cattle in the vicinity of Beloit have contracted the disease. Then again, this may be the only herd affected.

To Inspect Herds
To make sure that no other herds supplying milk to the people of Beloit are suffering from the same disease, the city will probably take action, compelling all farmers supplying Beloit dealers with milk to have their cows inspected by a competent veterinarian. Several milkmen who own their own cows have stated that they would have the test made without waiting for any order from the city.

Crowd Sees Killing
The slaughter of the cattle drew nearly a hundred spectators to the Strong farm. Among them were medical men from Beloit and Janesville, students and professors from Beloit college and farmers from the surrounding country, as well as several business and professional men from Beloit. The condemned cattle were taken out three at a time to the place of slaughter, several roads north of the barns where a long, deep trench had been dug at the edge of the woods to receive their carcasses. State Veterinarian E. D. Roberts acted as the executioner, shooting the animals with a revolver. Their throats were then cut and the hides were taken off.

The Demonstration
While this process was being carried on Dr. Roberts conducted the post mortem and Prof. Russell made demonstrations. The first animal killed was found to be quite badly affected, both the lungs and liver being thoroughly permeated with the tubercles. Another animal that appeared outwardly to be in the worst stages of the disease was but little affected. Still another cow that had appeared to be the least affected of any in the herd, showed at the post mortem as bad a condition as any killed.

Only a Yearling
One of the animals killed was a yearling that had the appearance of being perfectly healthy. It was found, however, that its pharyngeal glands were affected, showing the disease in its first stages. This came from the germs in the feed trough, said Prof. Russell. One cow had tuberculosis of the udder in a virulent form and the milk from such an animal the state bacteriologist pointed out could not be used for food.

To Ward Off Infection
Plenty of fresh air and sunlight, the professor said, were the best preventatives of the disease and barns into which plenty of sunshine was admitted and which were ventilated scientifically as houses were ventilated were the only safe places to keep the cattle.

Farmers' Duty to Make Tests
Prof. Russell, in his demonstration, said that it was absolutely impossible to tell whether an animal had tuberculosis or not unless the test was made. This test, he said, was unfailing in showing whether or not the disease existed. It was the duty, he declared, of every farmer to make the test, for if any of his cattle were affected it would be only a matter of time until all the rest were in a like condition.

More Susceptible
Tuberculosis in cows, Prof. Russell said, was the same as tuberculosis in the human being, only that the cows were more susceptible to infection and the disease took a more virulent form. Healthy animals contracted it through the introduction into the herd of tuberculous cattle. They threw off the germs which became dry and were breathed into the lungs with the air. Cattle confined in barns, which were not thoroughly ventilated, were more susceptible to the germs than those in well ventilated barns. Range cattle seldom contracted the disease.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES.

Is a Captain: Edward Wray of Janesville is one of the six company captains of the university battalion, which was inspected by Governor La Follette and the members of the legislature at Madison yesterday.

Beat the Bugs: The Third Ward Lions won a hotly contested game of ball this afternoon in the upper end of the Courthouse park, defeating the "Bugs" by a score of 23 to 9.

Elected Delegate: At the regular meeting of the Women's Union League last evening Mrs. John R. Horn was elected delegate to the national convention of the league to be held in Chicago June 12.

Peach-Tree in Bloom: Five years ago Mrs. Marie Brown, who lives at 54 Center street, planted a peach pit on the premises. As a result she now has a small tree in full bloom. On Thursday night, the eighteenth anniversary of their wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Welch were surprised by sixty friends at their home, 207 Locust street, and a merry evening was passed at the card tables, concluding with a tempting luncheon, music, and an informal dance. The ladies' first prize at cards was won by Mrs. M. Steed, the gentlemen's prize by Mr. Cronin, and the consolation by Mr. Downing. Before departing the guests presented the host and hostess with an elegant book-case.

BURGLARS RAIDED THE BOSTON STORE

And Carried Away Hams, Corduroy Trousers, Smoking Tobacco and Tea Last Evening.

Burglars entered the Boston store on River street of which J. B. Smith is proprietor, some time last evening and carried away a variety of merchandise including two large hams and a number of smaller ones, several shirts and pairs of corduroy trousers, some packages of Peerless tobacco, tea, and coffee, and twenty cents in pennies which were in the open cash-drawer. Entrance was effected by breaking in the window lights and small board shutter in the sliding elevator door in the rear, crowding in the big barrier, and breaking a large pane in the glass door leading directly into the store. Before departing the visitors carefully replaced the shutter and threw the bolt on the inside door, so that their work was not discovered until Mr. Smith opened the store at 6:30 this morning. He estimates his loss at about $20. The work was undoubtedly done by local talent and the job was a bold one in view of the fact that the rear of the store is only a few yards from the rear of the post-office building.

MERELY A MATTER OF OBSERVATION

Chicago Doctor Tells the Public How To Be Certain About a Swindler.

It has long been a question to Janesville business men how to read a stranger's character on first meeting him. Even lawyers who settle up mysterious horse deals, some times read the faces of their clients wrong, and but for quick action would lose sums of money. However this is all a matter of the past. Dr. V. D. Lundquist has settled this matter for good and all. Speaking before a Chicago audience on "How to Sum Up a Stranger," he said: "When you meet a stranger pay close attention to his voice, motions and build. If you quarrel with him and he leans backward, shaking his head from side to side, or holds his hands in his pockets, don't be afraid of him. He is a coward and won't fight. But beware of the man who steps forward, holds his head down and shakes it from left to right. "Long, angular people can always work. They have capacity, and, like the mule and ox, will get there. If a stranger has a hard, stiff hand you can depend upon him as a friend and fear him as an enemy. "Vital people are not so reliable and don't like hard work. They enjoy banquets and will talk to the cook. Oseous people will cut food like sticks of wood. Good natured people are always fat. Fat people are excellent salesmen."

LOCAL JANITORS TO BE UNIFIED

Rumor Has It That Organization Has Been Formed and "Eddie" Poenichen Has Declined the Crown.

Rumor rife this morning had it that a full-blown union of the Janesville janitors had blossomed overnight. George Flaherty, who has charge of the Hayes block, was very reticent when questioned regarding the matter but intimated that the union, if formed, would have seven members including the elevator men in two office blocks. James McClelland, janitor of the Jackson block, said: "I give you notice not to mention my name in connection with this matter." It is reported that Edward Poenichen was offered the presidency of the organization but refused to accept unless provisions for a ladies' auxiliary were incorporated in the constitution. When approached with regard to the subject "Eddie" refused to be quoted other than as follows: "I don't care for her go."

FOR ABANDONING WIFE AND BABES

Roy Van Horn, of Lima, Was Brought Wintin Shadow Of the Prison Bars This Morning.

Before going to the county poor-farm on Tuesday, Mrs. Nellie Van Horn of Lima made complaint against her husband, Roy Van Horn, for desertion. The offender was apprehended yesterday and brought in to court this morning after a day's time for reflection in the county jail on his cruel conduct. Rather than have the man become a burden to the state in the Waupun penitentiary and the woman and her children a permanent expense to the county, District Attorney Nowhouse proposed a settlement. Van Horn appeared in a penitent mood and readily agreed to furnish his wife with a home in Lima, move the personal effects thither, pay her $20 the first of next week, and $5 a week thereafter, on condition that he be released on $500 bonds until June 4, when he must again appear in court to answer for the manner in which he has kept his agreement. Van Horn wept when his little two-year-old daughter came to him this morning and when Poormaster Kenyon finally took her away from him and led her to the mother who was about to journey back to the county house. Once removed from the Van Horn parental roof where they had been living up to the time of the separation, it is believed that this family will in due time become reunited and live happily ever after. If they do, the husband at least will have the district attorney to thank for his humanity and mercy.

NOTED SPEAKER ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

W. D. McCracken of New York, Will Deliver an Address Next Tuesday Evening.

He is a member of the Authors' club of New York city. He formerly lectured on history and travel. For three years he wrote much on Christian Science in the foremost reviews, magazines, weekly publications and daily papers in New York. He will lecture at the opera-house Tuesday evening. Admission is free.

FIREMEN'S BENEFIT AT THE WEST SIDE

Theatre, Monday Evening, Is Certain To Attract A Big Audience—Fine Bill Offered.

Monday evening at the West Side theatre a benefit performance for the firemen will be given at the West Side theatre and a record-breaking attendance is anticipated. The bill of fare will undoubtedly be the best of the season and the proceeds from Monday's entertainment will all be turned over to the Firemen's Relief association.

J. T. SNYDER HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

Wagon in Which He Was Seated Backed Off Platform Into Mill Race—by Unmanageable Team.

J. T. Snyder narrowly escaped a watery grave in the mill-race this afternoon, and but for the prompt work of firemen at the west side fire station might have drowned before aid could reach him. Snyder had backed a wagon to the edge of the platform overlooking the race and the animals refused to stop backing when told and over went wagon and Mr. Snyder into the river. Quick work by the firemen saved him and the horses, which did not get into the water and was released, and the wagon taken out by piecemeal.

DRUGGISTS AROUSED OVER A NEW SCHEME

Milwaukee Association of Pill Mixers Decides the Noble Bill Injurious.

So much has been said and written regarding the proposed legislation regarding patent and proprietary medicines that the action of the Milwaukee druggists regarding this legislation will be of interest.

Opposition to the bill now pending in the senate requiring the placing of formulas on all proprietary medicines containing toxins, narcotics, soporifics or more than 10 per cent of alcohol, developed at yesterday's meeting of the Milwaukee Pharmaceutical association. The matter was brought to a vote, the association placing itself on record as disapproving the bill. The bill is a substitute for the Noble bill which was killed in the senate, and letters will probably be sent to senators asking them to use their influence for its defeat. Local druggists say that the law is unnecessary, as no druggist will sell customers an injurious compound, and that it will add to the cost of a part of their stock. No action was taken yesterday on the question of the sale of medicines by department stores.

DUAL TRACK MEET WITH EVANSVILLE

High School Athletes at Evansville May 13—Probably No County or District Gathering.

Instructor A. H. Bartlett, manager of the high school track team, this morning received word from Manager Percy Churn of the Evansville high school track team that a dual meet to be held there May 13 could be arranged as far as they were concerned. Mr. Bartlett will respond to him and the meet will be held. A team of ten men or more will represent the local institution and they will likely be supported by a large crowd of rooters. This crowd will be strengthened in numbers by the fact that there is a general lack of funds in the treasuries of the athletic associations of southern Wisconsin. May 27 the state interscholastic meet will be held at Madison and the Saturday intervening between this date and the occasion of the dual meet with Evansville may be filled with a contest with some other school. Next Saturday the track season opens for the school with an interclass meet.

WENT TO SLEEP IN WRONG BED ROOM

Calif Did Not Like His Bedmate and Tried to Tell Him So Politely.

It was a town of Janesville farmer who was awakened recently from a sound slumber by a disturbance in the barn of his premises. He listened and heard a calf bleat pitifully with an occasional thump as an accompaniment that sounded somewhat like the beating of a bass drum. Dressing hurriedly he proceeded to investigate and discovered a man in the calf pen hanging to the creature's tail and administering a kick now and then on its glossy sides. When the owner recovered control of his faculties sufficiently he pulled the man from the calf and demanded an explanation of such unseemly conduct. The answer was: "At skal com her to bed ven dat calv eat mai face off. At tach him sometimes." And with an indignant shake of his shoulders the midnight visitor walked away.

BELOIT'S PROFESSIONAL NINE PLAYS GAME TOMORROW

With the Curlys, a Fast Team From Chicago—New Diamond Opening at Fair Grounds.

Tomorrow afternoon the Beloit professional baseball team will play the Curlys of Chicago in the opening game of the season on the new diamond at the fair grounds in that city. "Kid" Gleason, the new second baseman from Chicago, has reported to Manager Wilbur and the nine is now in readiness to put up good ball. Hanley, who has had flattering offers from several minor league clubs (including Oshkosh and Wausau of the Wisconsin State league) will be the box-artist for the Chicago team.

Marriage Licenses: Marriage licenses have been issued to Henry T. Hysell and Esther J. Feire, both of Shoshone; Thomas H. Cullen and Berdie O'Connor, both of Janesville.

Boy Released: Fifteen-year-old Willie Sherman, who was taken into custody by the police and kept in jail twelve hours because he would not obey his parents and remain at home, was released this morning.

Has Practiced Here: Burr J. Scott, a former Janesville attorney, is defending William John Meyer of Milwaukee in a sensational murder case.

GOES TO GREEN BAY TO MAKE HIS HOME

James McKone Leaves Janesville After Six Years' Residence Here.

James McKone, who has been connected with the insurance business in Janesville for the past six years, is shortly to remove to Green Bay, where he will make his future home. Mr. McKone is the newly elected president of the Badger Protective association, which is conducting a large business in Michigan, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin. He is also financially interested in the company.

WEATHER BRINGS JOY TO FARMERS

The warm weather following the rain of the past few days is welcomed by the farmers who are anxious to have the pastures get a good start. Most of the farmers are short of feed and they will turn out their cattle as soon as possible. The grass is growing so fast that it is thought that the stock can be turned out next week. Owing to the scarcity of feed the supply of milk delivered to the cheese factories has not been as heavy as usual.

Buy it in Janesville.

Conviction Follows Trial

When buying loose coffee or anything your grocer happens to have in his bin, how do you know what you are getting? Some queer stories about coffee that is sold in bulk, could be told, if the people who handle it (grocers), cared to speak out.

Could any amount of mere talk have persuaded millions of housekeepers to use the leader of all package coffees for over a quarter of a century, if they had not found it superior to all other brands in Purity, Strength, Flavor and Uniformity?

This popular success of LION COFFEE can be due only to inherent merit. There is no stronger proof of merit than continued and increasing popularity.

If the verdict of MILLIONS OF HOUSEKEEPERS does not convince you of the merits of LION COFFEE, it costs you but a trifle to buy a package. It is the easiest way to convince yourself, and to make you a PERMANENT PURCHASER.

LION COFFEE is sold only in 1 lb. sealed packages, and reaches you as pure and clean as when it left our factory.
Lion-head on every package.

COUNTY NEWS

ORFORDVILLE

Orfordville, April 22.—Barney Helmholtz was born in Coburg, Canada, September 2, 1828, and died at his home in Orfordville, April 19, 1905. At the age of sixteen, with his parents he came to Wisconsin and settled on a farm in Spring Valley, which has since been his home until about two years ago when he moved to the village. In 1867 he was united in marriage to Charlotte Paragon, who survives him. Five children were born to them. Gerlie, survive him. These children are: Mrs. M. E. Helmholtz, who died in childhood and others survive him. These are Burton of Meridian, Idaho, Elsworth of Hawthorn, Oregon, Mrs. B. W. Norton of Rockford, Ill., and Neva A. of Orfordville, also one brother, Mrs. George Helmholtz and two sisters, Mrs. Linda Stronss and Mrs. Belle Williams, all of Rockford.

The deceased joined the M. E. church in 1880 under the pastorate of D. O. Sanborn. In the death of Mr. Helmholtz the community has lost a kind neighbor and the family a kind husband and a very loving father. The funeral services were held at the M. E. church last Saturday and were conducted by Rev. Reynolds of R. Atkinson. Interment was in Maple Grove cemetery. Those who attended the funeral from a distance were Mrs. Roschold of Watertown, Miss Alice Copeland of Broadhead, and Mrs. Muer and daughter of Albany.

Mrs. H. C. Shenck entertained a number of lady friends last Tuesday evening in honor of her sister, Miss Della Sater, who has been spending a few days at home. Miss Sater is superintendent of the cooking department of a "Cent Colony" at Ottawa, Ill. Miss Sater returned to Ottawa on Friday.

A very pleasant surprise was given Mr. John Cansel at Hotel Rossier last Saturday evening, the event being his birthday anniversary. Refreshments were served and the evening spent in playing chess.

The surprise party given by Mr.

and Mrs. Nels. Wahovi on Thursday night of last week was a grand success in every detail. Quite a number went over to their residence regardless of the heavy rain and surprised Grace and then sent for Nels. After Nels came over the August told him they must go over to the Opera House. There they were surprised to see the entire hall tastefully decorated with canopies of purple and white and corse and white, also a fine supper served. They tipped the light fantastic toe until the light of dawn. One played the piano, some the violin and others played the horn.

Labor Notes

The employees of the United States Steel Corporation are expecting a readjustment of their wages. This will involve a yearly expenditure by the steel trust of about $9,000,000.

The new wage scale demanded on April 1 by the local plasterers, plumbers and carpenters' unions of Allentown, Pa., have been agreed to by the contractors, and no labor troubles are expected this year.

A further decline in employment is reported in the building and allied trades of France. In the metal trades a revival of activity was reported in many centers.

A general strike of all the boiler-makers on the Santa Fe system between Chicago and Albuquerque, N. M., is in progress.

The House Smith's and Bridge-men's union, the New York local of the structural ironworkers, has signed a trade agreement with the iron league members of the New York employers' organization.

The new Isthmian Canal Commission is satisfied that it will be impossible to dig the Panama canal with white labor. An agreement has been all but concluded between the War Department, and at least one contract labor concern by which 3,000 Japanese laborers will be taken from Hawaii to the Isthmus. Chinese will also be employed.

The Polish workmen and revolutionaries have found a new way of trying to embarrass the Government by organizing a boycott on vodka and tobacco for the double purpose of saving them one of the poor and reducing the revenue of the state.

DRINK HABIT

PERMANENTLY CURED BY

ORRINE

A SIMPLE HOME TREATMENT

Physicians pronounce drunkenness a disease of the nervous system. No will power can be relied upon to overcome the habit. Orrine permanently cures the craving for liquor by acting directly on the diseased nerve, restoring the stomach and digestive organs to normal condition, improving the appetite and restoring the health. No excruciating treatment necessary. Orrine can be taken at home without publicity.

Orrine is prepared in two forms. No. 1 is a tasteless and odorless powder, and is taken without the change of the patient's diet, in a glass of milk. No. 2 is a pill form, and should be taken by those who prefer it.

All correspondence confidential.

PRICE, $1.00 PER BOX.

Orrine is sold on a positive guarantee to cure. If it fails, we refund the money.

CHAPTER XII.

AT about this time Hetty Taunton, having finished her evening task of washing the supper dishes and putting the kitchen in order, sat idly on a little bench beside the doorway of her home. Some pink roses hanging on a bush near at hand attracted her attention. Reaching over, she plucked a handful, then, after bending an ear in the direction her mother had taken to visit a neighbor to assure herself that she was not returning, arranged the blossom coquettishly in the prim little knot of hair wound tightly at the back of her head, saying softly: "When I hear her coming I'll throw them out. Happen she'll not stay long now darkness hath fallen."

Sounds of approaching footsteps crunching the earth heavily fell on her ears, causing the girl to put her hand to her head guiltily. Then as a merry whistle broke out on the evening air she sank back with an appearance of relief, leaving the roses untouched.

"Pah! 'Tis Simon!" she exclaimed. "I might be known the sound of his clumsy footfalls! Lord knows I heard them often enough. The callant's forever a-pussing!"

Presently Kempster reached the garden gate, paused and, peering through the gloom, saw the glimmer of a white kerchief.

"Hetty, is't thou?" he said as he came toward her.

"Tea, Simon, who else but dreary me, playing all alone?" she said, rising, with an affected sigh. "Will enter. The air is chill."

Stepping into the kitchen, she lighted a candle that stood in readiness on a small table and, setting two chairs near the doorway, motioned to her visitor, who stood hesitatingly at the threshold, to be seated and took the other one herself.

"Those pink roses become thee, Hetty," Simon ventured to remark, regarding the young woman affectionately, his eyes glistening with admiration of her fresh beauty.

Under the warmth of his glance Hetty flushed slightly. "Mother would be angered if she saw them," she said.

For a time a silence fell between them, both looking out of doors at the peaceful night.

Then Simon observed: "At home now when I sit before the door alone of nights I look at my bushes hanging full of rose blossoms and think how a woman about the house could make good use of them to beautify herself. As 'tis," with a sentimental sigh and a nervous wriggle, "they wither and die away, the petals blown hither and thither by the wind."

Under the glimmer of the candle his round face wore a pensive expression.

Hetty tossed her head as if she did not understand either look or meaning, exclaiming with disinterested friendliness: "There's Sarah Ann Dugan, Simon. She maketh her bonnets on her love for flowers. Happen thou couldst get her to wear thy blossoms."

Kempster shook his head. "I truth, my mind dwelt not on good Sarah," he said, sighing again. "Nay, Hetty, 'tis thoughts of some one else that doth disturb my peace—a little black-eyed maid as pretty and as graceful as—as—"

Hetty, who had been listening to his words with an alert, suspicious look on her face, grew quite fidgety as she saw him mentally casting about for a suitable comparison.

"Now, Simon, thou hadst best be careful!" she cried hastily in a voice of warning.

At her words the enthusiasm on Kempster's countenance faded away. "I was but thinking on my little young heifer, Hetty, so lost the run of my words," he concluded lamely.

"There, I knew it!" she exclaimed angrily. "Thou wast going to compare me to thy heifer!"

She sprang from her seat and, hastily pulling in the window casement, said sharply, with no desire to conceal her pettishness: "If thou hast no better talk than that, forsooth, thou'd better be on thy way, Simon. A body'd love to look like an old cow!" she wound up sarcastically.

To Simon, who saw beauty in everything connected with his snug little farm, Hetty's dislike to his gentle flatteries was always a mystery. To him, so he scratched his forehead nervously, knowing that he had offended again unwittingly and wishing from his heart that he had not come, when the reason of his visit occurred to him.

Approaching his companion, he thrust his hands awkwardly into his breeches pocket and, pulling out a little packet, handed it to her.

"'Tis a trinket for thee, Hetty." A hot flush was on his face. "There wast a peddler at the Sign of the Red Heart a-selling them, and when I saw the gewgaws I thought at once on thee. Thou'rt so fond of trinkets, Hetty."

Had he succeeded in pleasing her this time? Simon's heart beat rapidly, and he could scarcely breathe with suspense as she slowly undid the wrapping, picked up the chain and hung it on the end of her finger, a dazed expression in her eyes; then she laughed a low, trilling, happy laugh.

"Thou didst buy it for me, Simon?" "For thee, sweet Hetty."

The honest fellow's voice trembled with feeling and tears of delight sprang to his eyes at sight of her pleasure. "Tis a good luck charm for lovers, they say."

"Ha! done, Simon!"

Hetty, dangleing the chain and heart before the light of the candle, blushed furiously. "Must do foolish things like spending thy money for trinkets for a cross patch maid who e'er finds fault with thee without adding on thy silly nonsense!"

"Will wear it, Hetty?" he whispered, coming nearer.

"Aye, gladly, Simon!" she cried, delighted with the gift, then, undoing the clasp and putting the chain about her white throat, said: "Couldst thou fasten it, Simon? My fingers are all thumbs, an' I'm all a-buster with surprise."

He sprang to her assistance, taking the ends of the chain from her small hands.

"Ah, lackaday," she continued in a lower voice, "I must wear it 'neath my kerchief, I ween, as mother is so wrathful at a body's wearing a gewgaw. She says they are implements of the devil to make maids vain and worldly. Shame, Simon! Thou needst not pinch my neck with thy clumsy manners. Hiss! 'Tis mother!"

They sprang apart. Hetty sank into a chair, hastily covering up the chain and pendant, and Simon, bending over an open Bible, turned over the pages slowly, as if intent on looking for a certain verse.

Mrs. Taunton entered, closing the door after her. "Good even, Simon Kempster. The night air groweth chill!"

"A fair greeting, good mistress."

Simon pushed a chair toward her. "Yesternorn Josiah told me that some of thy lambs were ill, and I did but stop in to see if they were better of the malady."

The dame seated herself gloomily.

"Ah, woe is me!" she sighed. "All's adversity and trouble! Two more sheep lay down with the disease tonight. But, worse than that, Josiah, my good son, who hath ever had a hearty appetite, for the past fortnight almost refused food."

"What doth all Josiah?" Simon asked with interest.

"No one can say," she answered. "But methinks 'tis the sight of so much wicked vanity and worldly display that our cousin hath seen fit to bring into this hitherto reverent village that hath upset Josiah. Ah, lackaday, such secures as we perforce must witness! Why, just tonight in going to the village I took the short path through the Mayland farm, and there before the door sat this papist lover of Margaret in a suit of lavender satin trimmed with gilt needlework, stringing a lute, and she, standing by with her hand on his shoulder, was humming the air of some French song. Both were so intent upon their wicked music that they did not even see me, Margaret's aunt. Such a sight sickened me, and I lamented my slothfulness in taking the short way. To be a constant eyewitness of such foolishness, as perforce Josiah is, can ne'er help grieving him. Prithree, a pious, God-fearing man, as he is well known to be, feels a responsibility for his cousin's soul and resents her cool and brazen determination to go her evil way."

"Nay, good dame," Simon ventured to reassure her, "thou must not let no fears for the loss of Mistress Mayland's soul, for I warrant thee that the spirit that must dwell in such a beautiful body could ne'er find else but a place in heaven."

"There, that is the way w' the men," cried the woman angrily—"ever seeing outward signs, which are devil's snares, and attributing them to the work of the good Lord!"

Her eyes, glaring around wrathfully, chanced to catch a glimpse of the roses dangling from Hetty's little knot of black hair, which that maid, in her pleasure at Simon's gift had entirely

"Couldst thou fasten it, Simon?"

forgot to remove. Her mother was at her side in an instant, tore the flowers out, threw them on the floor and stamped on them.

"Thou vain, wicked, empty head!" she cried shrilly. "Thy only thought to lay snares for the senses of men, forgetting thy father in heaven! Thou'd like to copy the wanton ways of thy cousin, wouldst thou, so that thy good brother could have more cause for grieving and be kept longer at his prayers?"

Hetty, who was really terrified at her mother's anger, began to weep gently. Mistress Taunton strutted to the large cupboard at the other end of the room to hang up her bonnet, and Simon, troubled beyond expression at the sight of Hetty's tears, contrived to slip a crumpled piece of paper into her hand, whispering quickly: "Happen this will comfort thee, sweet. I writ it at the tallow chandler's on my way up here. 'Tis good verse, Hetty, and of marvelous rhyme. Fare thee well, sweet."

Then, taking up his hat, he strode to the door, calling his adieu loudly to the older woman, who answered in a muffled voice from the interior of the cupboard.

Once safely in her room, Hetty drew the wooden bolt across the door and, sitting down before the piece of glass that constituted her mirror, removed her kerchief and with sparkling eyes looked at her white throat encircled by the silver chain.

"If mother e'er sees it she will burn it," she whispered, looking toward the door to make sure she had secured it against intruders. "Now for Simon's missive. For all he loves his farm, methinks he is not entirely lacking in sentiment. Mayhap 'tis a love verse!"

Undoing the crumpled piece of paper, Hetty deciphered the writing with great difficulty:

To sweet Hetty I fane
Would bring a chain,
With a love charm of a heart
That will never—no, never—let us part.

Hetty walked to the window and effed her flushed, pleased face to the calm star lit sky.

"Methought never to have liked that clumsy Simon so well," she whispered. "His comparisons were e'er so homely I much mislaid him, but now that he can write such love verses I ween that he is not without good parts."
